FORWARD

It seems rather fitting that the seed was planted for the compilation of this material on the thirty - three United Methodist Churches of the Peninsula District at the oldest Methodist Church, Williamsburg. On January 21, 1990, the church historians met in Room 306 for Officer Orientation Day and Robert E. Galloway of Trinity United Methodist Church, Newport News, made a suggestion. His remarks concerned a need. How helpful it would be if the United Methodist Churches on the Peninsula could become better acquainted with each other; if they knew something about the other churches, thus bringing them closer together in Christian love and fellowship as a family of United Methodist Churches.

The seed was planted and bore fruit at the luncheon meeting of the Peninsula Historical Society at Central United Methodist Church on January 25, 1990. A committee was appointed by the president to gather information from the churches and put it in a usable form.

The committee worked hard all spring, summer and fall. This book is the result. It is hoped that it is just a beginning and will stimulate interest in Our Methodist Heritage on the Peninsula. Don't let it collect dust. Explore the pages. Find out about the other churches. Learn more about your own beginnings. As you do, you will be proud of our Peninsula District and of our heritage.

The Committee wishes to remind all who examine this publication that, short of going to the Methodist Archives located in the library of Randolph Macon College at Ashland, Virginia, and researching all of the VIRGINIA ANNUAL CONFERENCE JOURNALS from 1785 to 1990, the information herein gathered from all the individual church historians is reliable. However, if any historian were to be inspired to do further research, especially for his own church records, and find information that would either correct or add to the authenticity of this publication it would be greatly appreciated.

The Virginia Conference Annual is the most important publication in Methodist archives. There is not a complete collection on the Peninsula District. We recommend that all churches preserve these journals and share any extra with one of our churches which will be appointed to be the central historical location for the district.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Our sincere thanks to:

1. The individual church historians for supplying the material on the specific churches. Their names are listed in the back of the book.

2. Dr. Hazel Davis for writing "How the Peninsula District Developed."

3. Michael Galloway who devoted many hours developing the map.

4. The district office staff, Mabel Baird and Roberta Davis, consultants.

5. Nell Ellison, secretary at Central Hampton Church, for running the copies and doing much typing.

6. Aldersgate and Central Hampton churches for providing the meeting place for the committee to work.

7. The members of the committee who went beyond the call of duty - especially Arnice Beard who did the original editing, prepared the assignments and typed the histories.

HOW THE PENINSULA DISTRICT DEVELOPED

The General Conference, the Annual Conference, the District, the Circuit or Station-- these are the units that are the framework of our denomination. To give the Peninsula District its historical setting, the Virginia Annual Conference comes first.

The Virginia Conference had its beginning in the first four days of May, 1785, when Bishops Francis Asbury and Thomas Coke convened the Virginia preachers, about twenty of them. They met at the home of William Mason in Brunswick County. The Conference appointed 25 preachers to 12 circuits in Virginia and North Carolina.

This was one of three regional conferences in 1785, held after organizing the Methodist Episcopal Church in December 1784. The proceedings of the three regional conferences were combined in the General Conference minutes, worded as if a single conference had been held.

By 1800 the three regional conferences had grown to seven. The 1800 minutes, in announcing the time and place for the next year's meetings, lists them for the first time as "Conferences", e.g., "Virginia Conference, in Brunswick Co., at Drumgoole's, April 1, 1801." Beginning in 1801, the general minutes reported the statistics and the information on stationing the preachers separately for each conference.

In the years between 1785 and 1800, the various circuits (including from the first year the Williamsburg Circuit) were grouped under the names of "elders". Some men who later became famous in Methodist history were among the Virginia elders, including Bishops William McKendree, Enoch George, and Richard Whatcoat. Also, James O'Kelly, who later led the schism that resulted in forming the denomination known now as Congregational-Christian, was an elder in the Virginia Conference. Beginning in 1800, the groups of circuits, led by "presiding elders", were given names. Virginia had four districts--Salisbury, Newbern, Norfolk, and Richmond. The Williamsburg circuit was on the Richmond District.

Through the years the names of districts changed and the number increased. Only the Norfolk District has remained. The Williamsburg Circuit on the Richmond District (or the James River District)was for years the only circuit on the Peninsula. The Hampton Church, long an appointment on the Williamsburg Circuit, became a separate circuit or station in the 1830's. Hampton and other churches on the northeast side of the Peninsula were shifted around among the Richmond, James River, Norfolk, Eastern Shore, and Portsmouth Districts before being settled in the Norfolk District in 1909-10.

When churches were organized on the southwest side of the lower Peninsula, notably the present Trinity in Newport News in the 1880s, they were assigned to the Richmond District. But by 1910 Trinity was on the Norfolk District, and by 1920 on the Portsmouth-Newport News District, along with Williamsburg and the churches in between. This illogical dispersion of the Peninsula churches was corrected by the formation of the Peninsula District in 1954-55.

[Miss Catherine Blanton has researched the early history of the Peninsula District. From her notes, including papers of the late Frank H. Beard, the material that follows has been derived.]

Methodist churches on the Peninsula were constantly handicapped by the division between two districts. Cooperative activities were almost impossible, although there was some joint work in the children's division of the Sunday Schools. Numerous requests were made, as early as World War II, to persuade the Conference to place all the Peninsula churches in the same district.

On November 12, 1948, a meeting called by George T. Elliott of First Church, Hampton, dealt with the problem. Forty-one men from 17 Peninsula churches were in attendance. They organized the Peninsula Association of Methodist Laymen, with one of its objectives to have the Peninsula churches combined into one district. Preliminary meetings had produced a nominating committee, and the Association elected Frank H. Beard as chairman, Lynn LeHew as vice-chairman, and Fred Talbott as secretary.

The Virginia Methodist Advocate, March 17, 1949, featured the group headed by Mr. Beard, with a picture of the Executive Committee. In addition to Beard, LeHew, and Talbott were B. C. Embrey, Albert E. White, Grady Montgomery, A. W. Brittingham, George T. Elliott, Dr. O. T. Amory, and John W. Gray.

On March 3, 1950, Bishop Peele addressed a mass meeting at which the Peninsula Association of Methodist Laymen presented a plan for unifying the Peninsula churches without adding a new district. The plan was to transfer certain of the charges on the Portsmouth-Newport News District to the Norfolk and Petersburg Districts and to transfer the Peninsula churches on the Norfolk District to the Portmouth-Newport News District. This proposal was made to comply with Bishop Peele's adamant stand against adding a new district.

But nothing was done about re-districting until the 1952 annual Conference appointed a committee to determine whether or not a need existed for re-districting. The committee proposed to the 1953 Conference that Dr. Douglas of Emory University be engaged to make a survey and recommendations.

At the 1954 Conference the committee's majority recommended further study. A minority report, however, appealed for immediate action. The minority members were W. Kenneth Haddock, John W. Morrison, M. W. Arthur, and Frank Beard.

The paragraphs that follow are quoted from the minority report:

> ...in our opinion the most acute redistricting problem now existing is that the Peninsula should be unified and formed into a new and separate district without any cost of any kind whatever to the Annual Conference. ... after a study extending over a period of years, the Methodists of Norfolk District and Portsmouth-Newport News District have overwhelmingly requested, through their respective District Conferences, that this session of the Annual Conference shall make it possible for Bishop Garber to form and that he be respectfully requested to form a new and separate district to be known as the Peninsula District...

... the churches of both districts, including the Peninsula, have calculated and agreed to pay all costs involved in the formation of the new district and have made arrangements for a District Superintendent for the Peninsula and providing him a District parsonage in the hope that the proposed Peninsula District will be formed at this session of the Conference.

The 1954 Annual Conference approved the report. The 1954 Conference Journal, in listing the appointments made by Bishop Paul N. Garber for 1954-55, includes the 26 Peninsula appointments as follows:

In the past 36 years (1954-1990) the Peninsula District has grown to 33 churches compared to the 26 of 1954-55. Twenty of these charges retain the same name as in 1954, five have a new name, and seven are now new churches.

The District Staff - 1954 -1990

Mrs. Marguerite Hopson (Clarence E.), then Church Secretary of First United Methodist Church, Newport News, did the secretarial work for the first two District Superintendents, Dr. William P. Watkins and Dr. R. Orman Bryant, and when Dr. M. Douglas Newman first came to the district. The Superintendents worked out of their District Parsonage on Brandon Road until early in Dr. Newman's tenure when the District Office was established at 75 Shoe Lane in Newport News.

The first paid District Secretary was Mrs. Lucy G. Henkel (A. Harry) who began her duties in September of 1966 and continued until her retirement in September of 1976.

She was succeeded by Mrs. Mable Cox Baird (Marion S.,Jr.) now District Administrative Secretary, who as of September 1990 completed 14 years of service. (She had already been for ten years the Alexandria District Secretary.)

The present part-time Secretary is Mrs. Roberta H. Davis (Richard B.) who has served since October 1985.
